13.   Force Majeure Events

13.1   In general terms, under this Contract neither Party will be liable to the other Party for any delay or non-performance of its obligations under this Contract to the extent such delay or non-performance arises from an event or circumstance that is beyond the reasonable control of either Party (a "Force Majeure Event"), provided that the directly affected Party:

13.1.1   immediately notifies the other Party in writing setting out details of:

(a)   the cause of the delay or non-performance and the nature of the relevant event or circumstance;

13.2.2   the corresponding obligations of the other Party will be suspended, and it's time for performance of such obligations extended to the same extent as those of the directly affected Party; and

13.2.3   any costs arising from that delay will be borne by the Party incurring the same.

13.3   Where the period of delay or non-performance continues for a period of 14 Working Days with no further sign of any change in the foreseeable future after that period, the Party not directly affected by the event or circumstance may terminate this Contract on immediate written notice to the directly affected Party.

13.4   Subject to the following and for the purposes of this Clause 13, whilst an event can be beyond the reasonable control of either Party if such event is ongoing or is contemplated by the Parties at the Effective Date, or becomes foreseeable by either Party during the Term (which can include global pandemic, national epidemic and related government action and restrictions on movements of natural persons) the procedural requirements of Sub-Clause 13.1.1will continue to apply to the directly affected Party.
