Responsiv Cloud Integration Platform provides connectors and hosts logic to access information in SaaS products, your own systems and applications, and IoT devices. Using the Platform, you will be able to develop your own connections, transformations, routes, and management logic using low and no-code tooling. The platform provides Production (consistent, reliable, and high-performance), Test, and Development environments to support your ongoing use of the platform.

Included Capacity

This Responsiv Cloud Platform functionality is limited by available capacity and licensed entitlement. Resources are calculated per instance and allocated or expanded to support the number of licensed instances. Resource calculations are based on typical small to medium enterprise demand and Responsiv discretion using with well-behaved and balanced user applications (integrations). Allocations per instance are:

Production: Integration capability: 2x integration runtime instances, each configured with 1x core, 4GB memory, 0.128TB Storage allocation

User Acceptance Test (UAT): Integration capability: 1x integration runtime instances, configured with 1x core, 4GB memory, 0.128TB Storage allocation

Development: Integration capability: 1x integration runtime instances, configured with 1x core, 4GB memory, 0.128TB Storage allocation

Additional Optional Services

Responsiv Cloud Back Up Service – RA002BM

This product can be used in conjunction with a single existing Responsiv Cloud Platform (Parent Platform) and is subject to the terms of that platform. Multiple cloud platforms require separate backup agreements. This product can be purchased at any time for a minimum duration of 1 month. All backup contracts will co-term with the Parent Platform and will terminate should you cease your use of the associated Parent Platform.

Responsiv Cloud Expansion Packs – RA0029K, RA002AL

This expansion entitles 1 core and 8GB memory to be allocated to the parent Responsiv Cloud Platform. Allocated resources are automatically added and included into Responsiv Cloud software license arrangements without further charge. Allocations can be made to any environment or part of the platform and are carried out by Responsiv Administrators.
