

License Pricing - GCloud Submission

Adaptavist, as an Atlassian Platinum Partner are part of the Atlassian ecosystem which holds thousands of Atlassian Partners across the globe, many of whom are product providers, which sit in the Atlassian Marketplace, an online platform which allows customers to purchase apps for their Atlassian estate.

As a Platinum Partner, Adaptavist get the highest level of discount available on these licences, some of which can be forwarded on to the end client. However, prices are set by the vendor of the product and Adaptavist have no control over this. As such, Adaptavist are unable to provide an easy pricing table, partly for this reason, but also partly because of the sheer number of products available on the Marketplace. Finally, Atlassian offers two different platforms: Cloud and Data Center. These all have different pricing structures (i.e Cloud is by user, Data Center is purely subscription), with different contributors to each platform and charging different fees for their products.