About us

Founded by Tim Passingham in 2015, Cambridge Management Consulting was started to bring years of experience in digital technology to the startup & scale-up community of Cambridge, UK.

Quickly expanding our offices to London, Paris, New York and many other locations, we now have over 160 experts in 20 countries and work with governments and enterprises internationally.

We firmly believe that there is no substitute for real-world experience. That's why we don't employ consultants: everyone in our team has years of senior experience in their field and a track record of delivering transformation and impact in the enterprises or government roles in which they have served.

We enable our clients to have a better impact on the world
