Pricing Assumptions

The following assumptions are associated with our standard pricing model. These are not exhaustive and may vary dependent on specific engagements through the G Cloud 14 framework. These, and any other relevant assumptions will be mutually agreed with the buyer prior to contract award.

Pricing assumptions would typically include the following:

- The relevant involvement of client resources will be key to ensuring the success of this engagement and the realisation of long-term benefits.
- Access to relevant client IT and systems (e.g. laptops / IT accounts) for Newton resources to enable access to OFFICIAL-SENSITIVE information and above where applicable.
- Support in stakeholder engagement where relevant, and in contacting and/or providing access to key stakeholders in a timely manner.
- Access to relevant data and systems where appropriate
- The provision of access to relevant sites and locations to execute on deliverables. This should include the provision of appropriate passes and access subject to relevant security clearances.
- Where relevant, access to client working groups to attend periodic progress and program management reviews where required;
- Access to relevant senior stakeholders for decision making and deliverable acceptance. This should be provided in a timely and regular (where required) manner.
