

THANK YOU FOR YOUR INTEREST IN FARSIGHT DIGITAL MARKETPLACE SERVICES

We've tried to make it easier for you to find what you want

We have provided services to government organisations for many years and, over time, we have developed a considerable amount of supporting information that might be useful for potential purchasers of our services.

This includes things like:

- Explanations of how the services have been / could be used;
- Explanations of how services can be combined to deliver specific outcomes;
- Examples of the services, including case studies from clients;
- Feedback from clients and others impacted by the services we provide.

When working with our clients, we have noticed that they have found it useful to be able to “jump around” the information and to decide on their own reading path, rather than going through things in a linear fashion.

Therefore, we have created a specific section on our website which brings together all of the information about our Digital Marketplace Services. It is regularly updated to reflect our latest thinking and best practice for each of the services and provides tools and filters to help you find what you're looking for.

It also provides examples of relevant work and feedback from clients to give you a better feel for how the Services could benefit your organisation. You can access the Digital Marketplace section here:

If you're looking for some examples of our work

With the number of projects we are undertaking, and the fast-moving world of digital and cloud services, we have found that almost as soon as we've published things to the Digital Marketplace they are out of date.

We want to ensure that you have an accurate view of the kinds of things we can do, and up to date examples of our work so we have a section of our website dedicated to examples of our work across the Public, Non-for Profit and Private Sectors.

It is regularly updated as we complete engagements and provides tools and filters to help narrow down the list and to help you find what you are looking for. You can access this section here:

One final thing...Opportunities for Pro Bono work

We have recently introduced a volunteer programme within Farsight to enable our people to take on interesting work which is slightly outside of their usual roles or somewhat different to our “usual” work. The key aims of this programme are so that the team can pursue things they are passionate about, especially those involving improvements to communities, society and people in general. If you feel that you have work that is interesting, challenging and aligned with this aim – please get in touch. We'd love to have a conversation.
