Tailored E-learning

Achieve the best training and organisational outcomes with our SkillStream methodology - whatever the size of your workforce and however diverse their learning needs.

We create innovative end-to-end training approaches which consist of unique e-learning interventions matched to your content. This methodology is driven by research-based studies which have shown substantial improvements in learning outcomes — up to 30% better than traditional methods.

What is Tailored digital learning?

It's when we combine our tried and tested digital learning methods, researched with the University of Sussex, with the specific training needs of your organisation to create engaging digital learning which has a real impact. It simply means courses are designed with you and for you.

Research shows we will forget 90% of what we learn within the first month – This has been referred to as The Forgetting Curve by Ebbinghaus. Our tailored digital learning helps organisations beat this curve through learning design that includes emotive, relevant and interesting elements for learners to interact with.
