Learning Portals

Service Definition Document

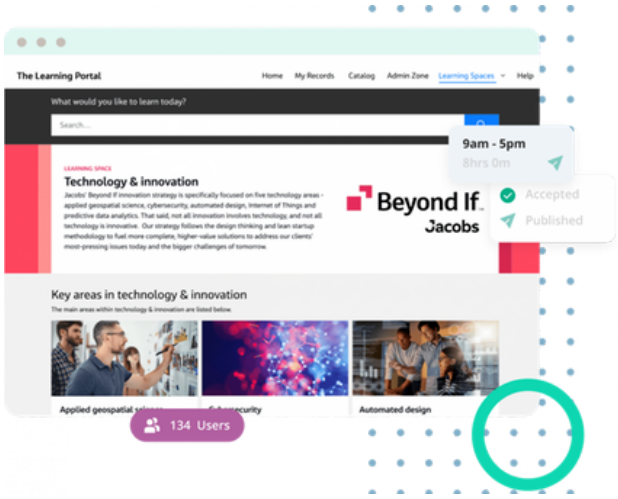

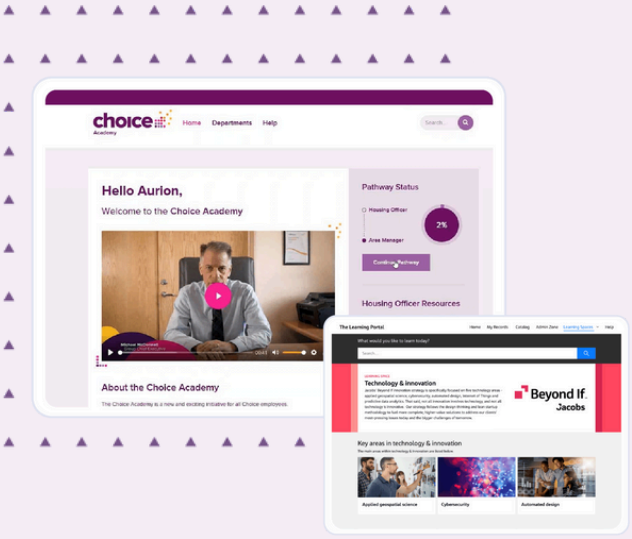

Introducing Learning Portals

Present, empower and promote your learning initiatives for external or internal audiences with an Aurion learning portal.

Our content-led learning portals enable you to showcase your learning as you need – moving beyond the fixed layout of any other platform type. Ideal for projects demanding a dedicated online presence.

We design your learning portal around your vision, your content needs and our expert recommendations – whether you have one key initiative or many.

Tailored Flexibility

Design, content and technical features come together to give you unrivalled flexibility and control. Content managed components allow key messages and resources to evolve over time as needed.

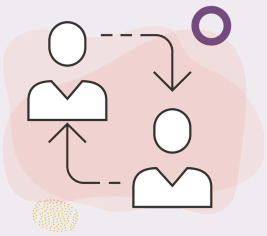

Our learning portals help you consolidate multiple sources of learning into a single place, with the context and clarity learners need to engage and develop. Deliver a modern learning experience and report back on completion and engagement with your learning initiatives to key stakeholders.

Learning Portal Options

Aurion offers two types of learning portal - a standalone option and an LMS integrated option - to meet diverse client requirements:

Standalone Learning Portal

Self-contained learning portal with no LMS integration. All registration and tracking functionality is handled within the portal.

Tracking in this option is limited to courses started/completed. Note: eLearning courses on standalone portals must have been developed by Aurion (see our separate customised eLearning service offering).

Ideal for:

- Content hosting
- Large-scale/public initiatives
- Minimal recurring costs

LearnUpon LMS Integrated Portal

The learning portal sits on top of the LearnUpon LMS and integrates using LearnUpon Anywhere, which hides the LMS interface from the learner.

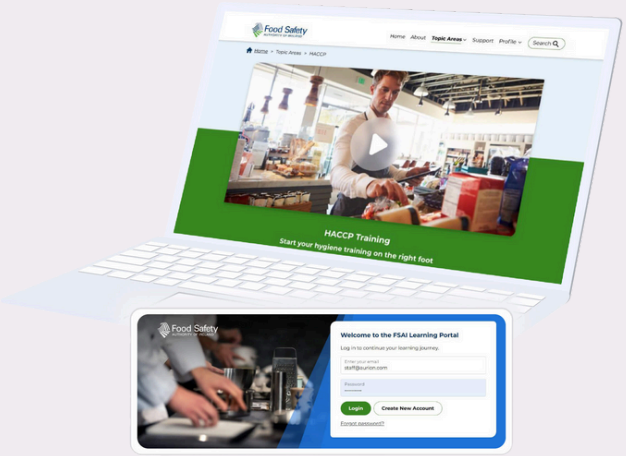

Content management is handled within the portal and module tracking and reporting is handled within LearnUpon. Note: Additional costs for LearnUpon apply (see our LearnUpon G-Cloud service offering).

Ideal for:

- LMS-level tracking/reporting
- Enhanced learner experience
- Full control of presentation

> We are very impressed by the whole engagement from Aurion. The quality of what is delivered is excellent and the constructive suggestions we have, and continue to have, from the staff involved have helped us enormously in shaping our eLearning modules.

Learning Portal FAQs

What's a learning portal?

A learning portal is a centralised online platform that provides learners with access to a variety of educational resources, tools and features. It serves as a digital hub for organising and delivering learning content, facilitating communication and tracking progress. Learning portals are designed to create a structured and engaging environment for individuals or organisations seeking to enhance their knowledge and skills.

What technology do Aurion's learning portals use?

Aurion's learning portals are websites built in and content managed by the Umbraco content management system (CMS). They can sit on top of a learning management system (LearnUpon) or be self-contained and include necessary tracking and reporting of learning content directly as an embedded part of the learning portal.

What are the benefits of an Aurion learning portal?

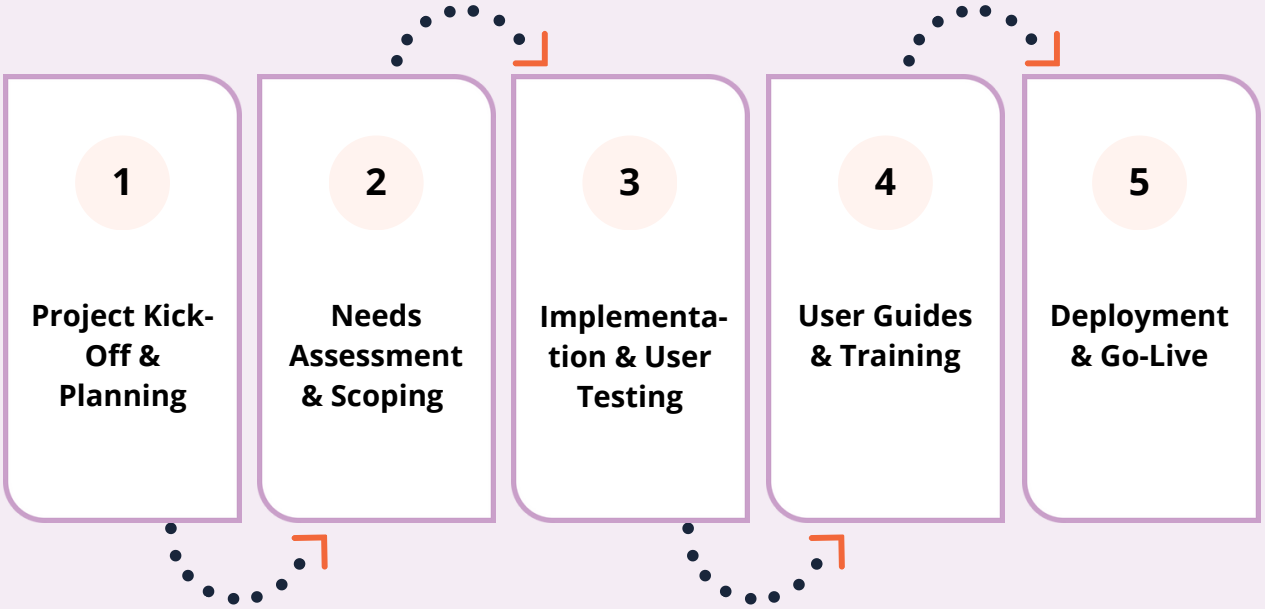

Aurion's learning portals have been designed as a targeted solution for content initiatives, allowing learners to register and access relevant content for an initiative that is either timebound or ongoing. The portal offers learners a tailored experience to access and complete training and offers client administrators a simple and effective way to manage content and report on learner statistics.

An Aurion learning portal also enables clients to supplement their eLearning modules with additional content, context and key information for learners, going beyond the standard capabilities that most learning management systems have in this area. This additional information/context can be in the form of pre-login pages, post-login pages, module overview pages or learning spaces, which give learners additional information on a given topic area and signposting to find out more.

Delivery Approach

Our award-winning team of UX designers and technical developers are on hand to help you configure and deploy your learning portal using our 5-stage technical development methodology:
