

Red teaming for real-world resilience

Think like an attacker and reduce risk.

Attackers exploit human error, weak processes, and overlooked vulnerabilities to bypass even the most advanced defences. Traditional penetration tests only reveal part of the story. To truly understand your organisation's resilience, you need to see your business through the eyes of an adversary. That's where PGI's Red Team comes in.

Why 'red teaming'?

Red Teaming is more than a technical exercise—it's a full-spectrum simulation of real-world attacks. Our experts replicate the tactics, techniques, and procedures used by threat actors, to test not just your technology, but your people and processes too. We uncover the blind spots that automated tools and compliance checks miss, enabling you to:

Identify and remediate weaknesses across all corners of your business before attackers exploit them.

Show stakeholders and regulators that you take proactive steps to protect critical assets.

Improve detection and response capabilities across your organisation.

Why partner with PGI?

PGI brings a unique blend of technical excellence and strategic understanding. We don't just 'break in'—we work closely with you to show you how to fix those vulnerabilities. Here's what sets us apart:

Realistic simulation: Our job is to understand threat actor behaviours, so we can emulate genuine approaches; from nation-state techniques to organised cybercrime.

Business-aligned outcomes: Our reports provide clear, prioritised recommendations that align with your risk appetite, regulatory obligations, and business objectives.

Trusted expertise: PGI's consultants are seasoned professionals with backgrounds in intelligence, cyber operations, and incident response.

Knowledge transfer: Through collaborative debriefs and tailored workshops, we help you build internal capability and resilience.

Ready to see what you're missing?

It just takes one vulnerability for an attacker to compromise your operations, and they don't work set hours. Partner with PGI to uncover the gaps that matter most—and close them before they become headlines.

Schedule your Red Team assessment now and take the first step towards true resilience: findoutmore@pgitl.com

2/2