

Xenium Solutions Limited: Terms and Conditions

Issue Date: January 2026

- The intellectual property is retained by the owner of the application and does not revert to the buyer
- The customer retains the right to use the nominated application provided that monthly or annual fees are paid by the customer to the seller in advanced for the nominated number of users
- The source or compiled version cannot be transferred, given or sold to other third-parties
- Any modification/change to the source code by the customer is allowed but support of these would be on chargeable time and best-efforts basis
- All new versions incorporating bug fixes and/or new features will also be available upon release to the customer, providing that the account is current
- Any new features requested and paid for (development time) specifically by and for the customer may be incorporated into the standard product at no cost nor rebate to the customer
- New features developed and paid for by one customer would be available for all other iPatrol customers excluding implementation and customisation changes
- Where required, a copy of the source code maybe held in Escrow at an annual cost for the buyer
- All data generated by the application will be stored within the geographical region nominated by the buyer