Panther Labs

Panther uses a flexible, usage-based pricing model rather than fixed plans.

Instead of charging per user, Panther's costs are mainly based on how much data an organisation sends into the system each month.

Larger log volumes or more connected systems increase the price, while smaller environments pay less.

Because every organisation's data volume and needs are different, Panther provides tailored quotes rather than standard pricing tiers.

For more information, please contact the team at Generation Digital and we can provide further pricing information.
