Encryption

We keep designs secure in transit and at rest. In transit, designs are only accessible via TLS/SSL, and at rest, designs are encrypted with AES256.

Data security

Our people and systems can only access the data they need to do their job and we store your designs with cloud providers who have top-tier physical security controls.

Highly available

We use a global CDN to prevent network attacks and keep Canva highly available.

Monitored and resilient

Our threat detection, logging and alerting systems notify our oncall teams about potential incidents.

Secure development practice

We peer review and test our code prior to release, including manual and automated checks for security issues.

Staged releases

We only release software after qualifying it in development and staging environments.

Account security

We provide SSO and MFA options for users and enterprises to secure their accounts.

In-app permissions

Users can be assigned different roles to administer, manage, design or access content.
