Stripe charges when you receive a payment.
Set up fee may apply.

Each time a customer pays you via card (or other supported methods), Stripe deducts a small fee: a percentage of the amount plus a small fixed amount. The exact fee depends on card origin (UK, EU, international) and currency.

Because there are no fixed costs, Stripe scales with your business: you pay only for successful transactions. For companies with large volumes or special needs, we offer custom pricing plans.

For further information and to receive a tailored, accurate quote for your organisation in GBP, please contact Generation Digital.
