FortiManager

FortiManager

FortiManager is a centralised management platform offered by Fortinet. It's designed to streamline the administration and orchestration of Fortinet's security products, including firewalls, switches, wireless access points, and other network devices.

Benefits include

- Centralised control over distributed security infrastructure
- Consistent policy enforcement and compliance assurance
- Increased operational efficiency through automation
- Enhanced visibility and security analytics capabilities
- Streamlined device lifecycle and update management
- Reduced administrative overhead and complexity
- Scalable and flexible deployment options
- Secure remote administration and access control
- Integration with the broader Fortinet Security Fabric
- Improved overall security posture and responsiveness

FortiManager

Centrally manage your Fortinet Infrastructure with FortiManager including firewalls, switches, wireless access points, and other Fortinet network devices.

API and third-party integration support

Enable interoperability between security solutions and existing systems, facilitating centralised management, automation, enhanced visibility and compliance.

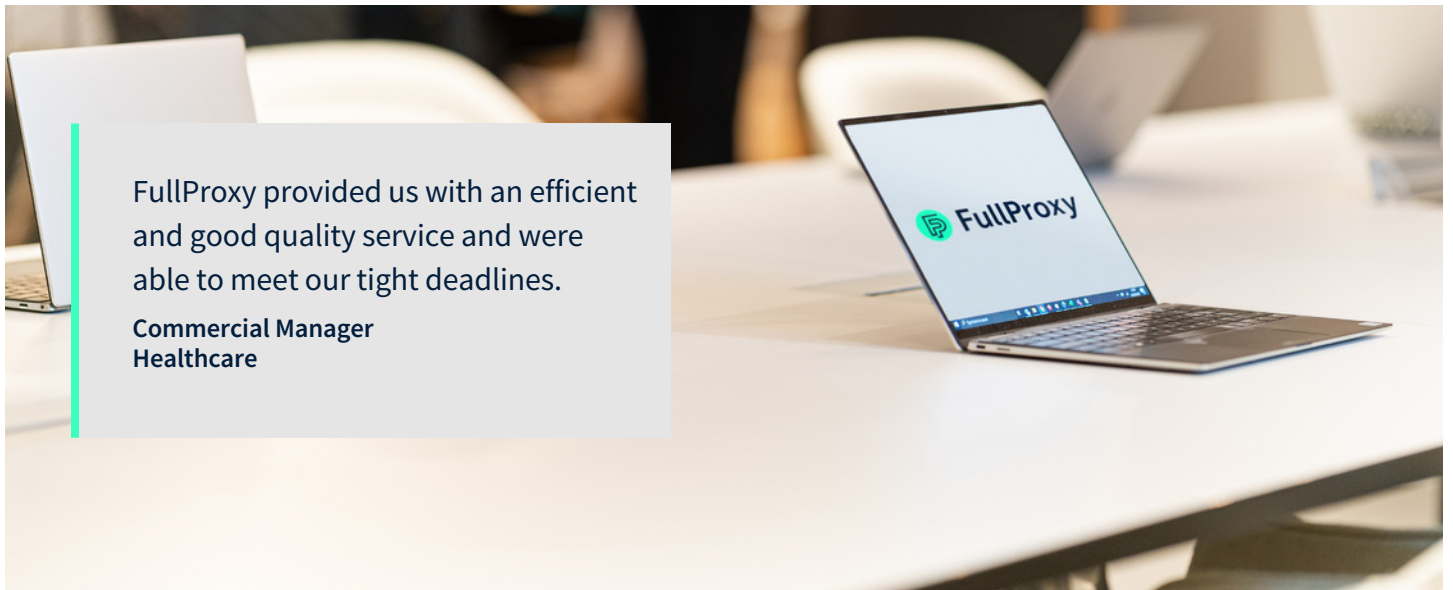

Integrated reporting and security analytics

Gain visibility into your security posture by consolidating and analysing data from multiple sources.

Configuration management and policy provisioning

Streamline the deployment and enforcement of consistent security settings across your organisations infrastructure, ensuring compliance with security standards and reducing the risk of misconfigurations.
