G-Cloud Service Name

Digital Communities Enterprise.

Service Overview

A secure, scalable, responsive community platform for open knowledge exchange and collaboration that brings together disparate organisations and people, enabling them to work easily across departmental, organisational, IT, geographical and language boundaries. A feature-rich, customisable, flexible communities of practice solution, capable of operating as an intranet, extranet or both.

Please see the Digital Communities Enterprise service definition for further information.

Pricing

Digital Communities Enterprise is offered as a dedicated service on an annual subscription basis. Subscription fees include hosting, software licences, maintenance and support as set out in the service definition.

The one-off implementation fee in the first year covers platform setup, configuration, onboarding and training for system administrators.

Any additional activities such as data migration, extra implementation support days, additional customisations and developments or establishment of integrations with services, systems or networks will be in line with resources required for that activity. The individual day rate for each resource type is included in the SFIA rate card.

Discounted bundles of additional development days are available via our G-Cloud 15 Service for Digital Place Professional Services.
