Ongoing service costs are made up of two components: software licence subscription and cloud infrastructure, as detailed below.

2. Cloud Infrastructure costs in addition

Fixed and variable infrastructure cloud infrastructure costs associated with processing through the cloud environment (compute, storage, processing, audit and logging, etc.) are calculated separately and passed through to the client. Example configurations for small, medium and large deployments are shown below. If daily data volumes exceed the scenarios presented, a detailed hosting assessment would be required to determine appropriate infrastructure sizing and associated pricing.
