

Pricing is based on an annual Software-as-a-Service subscription, which provides access to individual published digital health applications via the Ripple Publishing service, as outlined in the accompanying Service Definition. Pricing is per app, per organisation, per year, unless otherwise stated.

Ripple Publishing provides a single commercial and technical route for organisations to procure and deploy curated digital health applications. Each application is hosted, maintained and updated as part of the Cogniss platform, reducing duplication and ongoing operational burden. Some applications may be made available at no cost.

The subscription price is based on a number of factors:

- 1.The individual application selected
- 2.Intended scale of deployment
- 3.Hosting and operational requirements
- 4.Size and type of organisation

Prices for published applications start from £499 per app, per organisation, per year.

Please note, all prices are exclusive of Value Added Tax.

Exclusions: Ripple Publishing provides access to hosted digital health applications only. It does not include bespoke application development, custom feature development, content creation, local system integration work, change management, clinical assurance services, or professional consultancy. Responsibility for local implementation and adoption remains with the purchasing organisation.

PUBLISHED APPS

from £499 per year

- ✓ Access to curated and published digital health apps
- ✓ Centralised publishing and distribution via a single platform
- ✓ Shared infrastructure supporting multiple apps
- ✓ Secure access management and role-based controls
- ✓ Application-level analytics and usage reporting
- ✓ Standardised hosting, maintenance and security
- ✓ Flexible deployment via individual apps or a super-app model
- ✓ Single commercial and technical route for app procurement