Pricing

Introduction

Arcus offers a single SaaS platform with pricing that scales based on usage.

The platform's capabilities are organised into standard "applications" (collections of features and data) which support common working practices. Functionality can also be configured as customer specific "applications" tailored to local ways of working.

All customers purchase a "base environment" that includes all of the hosting, software packages, licences, services, integrations and technical support required to deliver a fully functional system that supports all of the core "internal" cases for which the software is intended.

Additional usage is purchased to reflect the required volumes as driven by each individual customer's scale and working practices.

There are four types of users:

- Standard User
 - Provides access to all end user functionality for the relevant service(s)
 - The large majority of staff will use be classified as Standard Users
 - Also used to provision users for integrations that run in "system" mode, typically batch based (as opposed to running as a logged in user within the context of a specific session)
- Administrator
 - Provides access to all end user functionality for the relevant service(s) AND provides access to system administration functions.
 - Generally used by IT Support staff / System Administrators / Super Users
- Consultee Portal
 - Provides suitably reduced application functionality to allow Consultees (or other external service partners) access to specific cases in the application.
 - Can be purchased on a user by user or pooled number of logins basis.
- Customer Portal
 - Allows an organisation's customers to log into (line of business-specific) "my Account" functionality to process service requests and receive interactive case updates.
 - Can be purchased on a user by user or pooled number of logins basis.

Arcus also offers supplementary features and services, the requirement for which is dependent upon local working practices and pre-existing technology assets.
