1. Introduction

Vodafone storm® (“the storm Service”) is a cloud-based, omni-channel contact centre and customer experience solution, hosted in Vodafone Data Centres, providing inbound and outbound communication services businesses of all sizes.

Vodafone storm® consists of a set of building blocks that can be deployed in any combination to create a vast array of customer experience services, all with UK data sovereignty. Its modularity and flexibility, coupled with the breadth of services and features available, offers a wide range of communication solutions. The term “Service” or “Services” means the storm Service.

2. Pricing Model

Model Overview

The licencing model is designed to be modular and flexible, providing a high degree of choice in the functionality provided to the Buyer. Buyers can choose how many licences of each type they require and can upgrade their service with a range of additional feature licences and optional services.

Pricing Elements

- (a) Setup Charges: One-off Charges covering professional services and activation of licensable elements such as users and software services.
- (b) Seat Charges: Software licenses charged monthly. These can be either per Named User or per Concurrent User:
 - i) Named User: a fixed-seat licence assigned to a single named user and only that user can log in to use services.
 - ii) Concurrent User: licences that give a single user access to the system and are shared between users. Agents and supervisors can only log into services if concurrent feature licences of the types assigned to them are available. Note that in a concurrent model, each individual user of the system still requires a named base security licence to access the solution.
- (c) Usage Charges: Based upon actual service usage and include items such as per minute call charges, SMS charges and recording charges.
- (d) Professional Services: charged at a daily rate, covering system installation and configuration, integration and development work, consultation and bespoke project design, training, and additional on-site assistance.

Contingency Licencing

Contingency licences provide reserve concurrent capacity that may be activated during periods of increased demand.

While unused, each contingency licence is charged at a fraction of the applicable concurrent licence monthly charge, as specified in the relevant Pricing Table or Call-Off Order Form.

Where a contingency licence is activated and used during a billing period, the Buyer will be charged the full monthly concurrent licence charge for the maximum number of contingency licences used concurrently during that billing period, in addition to any contingency charges already applied.
