3. Service Offering

Service Description

Insight's AWS Containers Assessment Service provides Clients with an introduction to Containers, their benefits, and how they can be optimally deployed within AWS.

The service covers evaluating an application and use the app2container application to containerise a single .NET or Java application and deploy into a PoC environment.

Service Overview

The AWS Containers Assessment service introduces customers to containers and their benefits, and how to deploy them within AWS. Insight analyses our clients' IT solutions for containerisation suitability. Insight will host a workshop to discuss containerisation benefits, evaluate different AWS services for running containers, and choose optimal options. The workshop covers skills, capabilities, operational implications, security considerations, and optimisations. We will work with your development teams to evaluate applications, containerize a single .NET or Java application using the app2container application, and deploy it into a PoC environment based on the AWS ECS service for testing and evaluation.

By using the AWS Database Modernisation Assessment service, you can benefit from:

- Easy scaling: Containers allow for easy scaling of applications, enabling organisations to quickly respond to changes in demand.
- Portability: Containers provide a consistent runtime environment, making it easy to move applications between different environments, such as from development to production or between cloud providers.
- Cost savings: By using containers with AWS and Insight, organisations can take advantage of the cost savings associated with using cloud infrastructure, as well as the ability to only pay for the resources they use.
- Simplified management: Containers can simplify the management of applications by providing a standardised way to package and deploy them.
