

Cyber Threat Intelligence

We transform information into intelligence at different levels (tactical, operational, and strategic) to help you take a proactive approach to threats.

Cyber Security

What is Cyber Threat Intelligence?

Knowing, understanding, and profiling our adversaries has become essential to anticipate and detect new attacks on our customers that escape traditional defensive solutions.

That's why our comprehensive cyber intelligence service provides organisations with actionable intelligence that spans all levels of cyber threat analysis.

We empower you to defend against even the most sophisticated cyber threats by providing a holistic view of the threat landscape, actionable intelligence, and expert guidance.

Benefits

Informed decisions: Key stakeholders are empowered to invest wisely, mitigate risk, boost efficiency, and make faster decisions.

Prevention: Increasing the number of threats blocked in advance and enhancing both the frequency and impact of vulnerability patching strengthens your organisation's security posture.

Detection: Proactive preparation and protection enable your organisation to gain visibility into trends, threat actors, and their motivations and TTPs (Tactics, Techniques, and Procedures).

Response: By reducing the mean time to detection (MTTD), the service enables faster discovery of incidents, while also decreasing the mean time to remediation (MTTR).

Deliverables

The service offers different products tailored to the type of intelligence you need, allowing for:

Tactical intelligence: Ensure preparation and implementation of security controls and processes.

Operational intelligence: Understand and adapt to evolving attack patterns.

Strategic intelligence: Make informed decisions about your long-term cyber security posture.
