1 Overview

The Managed Backup Powered by Commvault Metallic service provides fully managed, cloud-based data protection for your AWS workloads. Built on Commvault Metallic, an industry-leading Data Management as a Service (DMaaS) platform, it combines proven enterprise backup technology with the simplicity and efficiency of SaaS delivery.

This service delivers enterprise-grade backup and recovery capabilities in a cost-effective, turnkey package. By leveraging a standardised, multi-tenant platform and economies of scale, we make robust data protection accessible to organisations of all sizes.

All critical AWS data — including EC2 instances, databases, and storage — can be protected to the Metallic cloud with air-gapped, immutable copies for ransomware resilience. The service is available globally, supporting multiple AWS regions and data residency requirements.

Delivered as a fully managed service, we handle the entire lifecycle of backup and recovery: from initial setup to daily monitoring, ongoing optimisation, and restore operations. Customers can also access the Metallic web console for optional self-service monitoring or recoveries. To provide assurance, we include comprehensive reporting and you can opt for regular restore testing, giving you confidence that backups are reliable and your data is always recoverable.
