

EPR and Digital Health Organisational, Data and Technical Readiness

Ideal Health is a trusted partner in preparing healthcare organisations for digital transformation. Using established techniques, Ideal consultants carry out an assessment of the organisation's current state of readiness and recommend a plan of activities specifically in relation to organisational, data and technical readiness.

Service features and benefits

Service features

- Benefits realisation readiness assessment, ensuring alignment between programme outcomes and organisational objectives
- Training Readiness assessment including high level Training Needs Analysis
- Organisational change and culture readiness assessment to evaluate leadership alignment and staff engagement
- Technical readiness assessments, data readiness and governance assessments to identify dependencies and potential risks
- Technical architecture, technical data readiness (TDR), and roadmap review
- Leadership engagement and vision alignment, with targeted branding and communication strategies to drive adoption
- Capability and capacity assessment to identify resource gaps and skill requirements ahead of mobilisation
- Business intelligence and data security analysis
- EPR implementation strategy and interoperability planning to ensure seamless integration with existing systems
- Scalability, privacy and data recovery planning

Service benefits

- Anchored in established methodologies such as HIMSS, PROSCI, and NHS Digital Readiness frameworks
- Clear and structured reports presented across organisational, data, and technical domains for Board and executive review
- Engages organisational leaders in assessing readiness for successful transformation
- Promotes vision and engagement enhancement for upcoming change
- Drives accurate resourcing and cost profiles for the business case
- Improves project success likelihood through comprehensive readiness assessments

- Reduces programme risk by addressing cybersecurity, compliance, data integrity, and interoperability gaps
- Provides a robust foundation for mobilisation, delivery, and benefits realisation

Client-Side Responsibilities

- Access to the client-side stakeholders required for delivery of this service
- Access to equipment, domains and files required for delivery of this service