Online Survey

When is it right for you?

If you need to capture user insights from a large sample size, across a large geographical spread or provide anonymity to the findings, then an Online Survey could be the right method of research for you.

We will help you understand which type of survey is the right fit depending on your business goals and the type of information you want to gather.

Online Survey

Features and benefits

Connect with your audience through a structured questionnaire to gather user insights. Learn who your users are, what they want to accomplish and what information they are looking for. CIVIC will help you define the goal of the research and create a survey based on your research needs.

Features

- Collect quantitative results
- Online survey tool
- Survey questions can include multiple choice, closed/open, vote, rank questions
- CIVIC will design, implement, monitor, analyse, and report results

Benefits

- Beneficial at any stage of the development process
- Use results to feed into qualitative research
- Create a baseline to monitor improvements against
- Can be repeated for benchmarking
- Capture user insights from across the globe, no geographical limitations
- Capture large sample size
