services

Ctrl O provides a variety of SaaS applications on the G-Cloud. On the whole, the standard pricing of these applications is inclusive of the services required by most customers. However, occasionally additional support or consultancy may be required for the applications, such as additional training or any aspect of project management, which is not included in the standard pricing (for example additional training). This product provides these specialist services.

Ctrl O can also provide consultancy for any cloud services that are delivered using open source software.

The consultant's working day is 7.5 hours, times of which to be specified by the customer. It is possible to split a single task into chunks of less than one day, to be performed over multiple days, but the minimum length of time for one task is a total of one day.

The minimum contract length is 1 day.
